PUBLIC NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on the 4th day of June, 1981, at 9:15 a.m., the West Virginia Air Pollution Control Commission will hold a meeting at 1558 Washington Street, East, Charleston, West Virginia. The Commission will consider the proposed entry of consent decrees between the Air Pollution Control Commission and:

(1) National Steel Corporation, Weirton Steel Division, which requires National Steel Corporation to install at its Weirton plant, Weirton, West Virginia, air pollution control devices and adopt certain procedures which will provide for compliance with the Commission's regulations; and

(2) Triangle PWC, Incorporated, which requires Triangle PWC to install at its Glen Dale, West Virginia, plant air pollution control devices and adopt certain procedures which will provide for compliance with the Commission's regulations; and

(3) Ohio Edison Company, Duquesne Light Company, and Pennsylvania Power Company, which contains amendments to the existing consent decree to parallel the consent order entered between such companies and the United States Environmental Protection Agency concerning the W. H. Sammis Station located at Stratton, Ohio.

STATEMENT OF FACTS AND CIRCUMSTANCES CONCERNING TEMPORARY REGULATION XIX-W

Each state, under the Federal Clean Air Act, must file a state implementation plan. Part of the state implementation plan, according to Federal requirements, must contain rules and regulations concerning a specific regulatory process for new source review for areas where air quality standards are not currently being met. As final Federal rules have yet to be adopted, the West Virginia Air Pollution Control Commission adopted temporary Regulation XIX-W at their meeting on June 4, 1981, to fulfill this Federal requirement.
