EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

WEST VIRGINIA DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

WVBE Policy 5202: Minimum Requirements for the Licensure of Professional/Paraprofessional Personnel & Advanced Salary Classifications

Background: In order to deliver quality 21st century instruction, teachers must possess the skills to utilize instructional technologies and be supported by administrators and other educators that have the capacity to support that instruction; therefore, WVBE Policy 5202 has been revised to include modifications to the options related to renew Professional Teaching and Administrative Certificates and the creation of an Advanced Credential endorsed for Technology Integration. Other revisions to Policy 5202 reflect recent changes made by the West Virginia Legislature regarding Permanent Professional Certification and the methods by which the West Virginia Department of Education (WVDE) issues reimbursement for coursework completed in areas of critical shortage. In response to changes in regulations provided by the United States Department of Education, the options by which a teacher may become highly qualified have been modified to remain consistent with federal guidelines. Revisions to WVBE Policy 2525 (West Virginia's Universal Access to a Quality Education System), necessitated revisions to Policy 5202 regarding the licensure of individuals employed in community programs under contract with local boards of education to provide instruction at the pre-kindergarten level.

Revisions: Revisions to WVBE Policy 5202 are as follows:

- Modified requirements to renew any Professional Teaching and Administrative Certificates issued after January 1, 2008, to stipulate that three of the six semester hours of coursework required to renew the license be a course related to instructional technology, as defined by the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE).
- Created an additional category of licensure identified as Advanced Credential to recognize and reward educators for completing coursework, professional development, and/or testing requirements outside of the requirements for professional licensure.
- Removed the option to renew a Temporary Authorization endorsed as Technology Integration Specialist and created an Advanced Credential endorsed in the same area.
- Created option for those who achieve certification through the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards to be issued a Permanent Professional Certificate in their respective fields.
- Limited the number of semester hours eligible for reimbursement through the WVDE to 15 semester hours and issue reimbursement to those completing coursework in areas of critical shortage, as mandated by the W. Va. Code §18A-3-3a.
- Modified the methods by which a teacher may become highly qualified by adjusting the HOUSS requirements for purposes of demonstrating subject matter competence.
- Eliminated the First-Class/Full-Time Permit for Community Programs and create both a Temporary and Permanent Authorization for Community Programs that allows individuals working in community programs under contract with local boards of education to be licensed while working towards a Professional Teaching Certificate.

- Extend the period in which an applicant can apply for licensure upon completion of program with no additional requirements due to programmatic changes from three months to 12 months.

Comments: Comments were received from four individuals regarding the proposed revisions to WVBE Policy 5202 (see all comments on the attached Comment Response Log). One change was made as a result of the comments received on WVBE Policy 5202.

- In response to a comment, all references to Behavior Disorders have been modified to reflect modern terminology reflected in WVBE Policy 2419 – Regulations for the Education of Students with Exceptionalities. The term is now Emotional/Behavior Disorder.
- One comment was received in response to the recommendation to modify the options for renewing a Professional Teaching Certificate to include coursework related to the integration of instructional technologies.
- Two comments regarding the possibility of creating an endorsement in the area Business/Marketing Education. The staff of the Office of Professional Preparation and the Office of Career and Technical Instruction are working together to define the requirements for such an endorsement.

- ¹ The test validity period is ten years from the date on which the candidate passed the examination. In those circumstances where the West Virginia Board of Education has not altered either the required test or the passing score, the test and score shall remain valid beyond the ten-year period. See section 8.5 in Policy 5100 for a more detailed explanation of testing requirements, particularly as they apply to experienced educators.
- ² The Pre-Professional Skills Test (PPST) [called Praxis I] may be waived provided the candidate: a) holds a master's degree from an accredited institution of higher education; or b) currently holds, or has held, a West Virginia Professional Teaching, Student Support or Administrative Certificate; or c) has attained a score of 25 on the American College Testing (ACT) program prior to November 1989 or an enhanced ACT score of 26 beginning November 1989; or d) has attained a score of 1035 on the Scholastic Achievement Test (SAT) prior to April 1995 or a re-centered SAT score of 1125 beginning April 1995.
- ³ A candidate completing a West Virginia approved program for the initial teaching license is required to pass a West Virginia Board of Education adopted Principles of Learning and Teaching Praxis II Test that includes at least a portion of the grade levels indicated on the anticipated license.
- ⁴ A candidate who has successfully completed the National Evaluation Systems (NES) test in emotional/behavior disorders, mentally impaired, or specific learning disabilities is not required to satisfy the Praxis II - Education of Exceptional Students: Core Content Knowledge Test since it is assumed this content was included in the NES special education content test.
- ⁵ For general science in grades 5-Adult, a candidate may substitute: 1) Test No. 0235 (Biology: Content Knowledge) taken for biology certification for Test No. 0231; and/or 2) Test No. 0245 (Chemistry: Content Knowledge) or Test No. 0265 (Physics: Content Knowledge) for Test No. 0481.
- ⁶ Candidates completing multi-categorical programs must take Test No. 0542 (Education of Exceptional Students: Mild to Moderate).

July 8, 2007	Lynn Boyer, Executive Director WV Department of Education	In the revisions to 2419 we changed the BD disability category to E/BD, i.e., emotional/behavior disorder. You may want to do a search and replace in both your polices to see where it is relevant to make a change when the reference is to a student's area of disability. I see in the Spec Ed Specializations chart, that the endorsement is Behavior Disorders (excluding Autism) but that 0371 under the Praxis Content Test is Teaching Student with Behavioral Disorders/Emotional Disturbances.	A ^o	To remain consistent with other WVBE policy, revisions to both Policy 5202 and Policy 5100 to replace the term Behavior Disorder with the term Emotional/Behavior Disorder. This change will be in title only. No substantive changes to preparation programs, course codes, or teaching assignments will change as a result.
July 12, 2007	Emily Waugh, Assistant Professor West Virginia State University	§126-136-10: Licenses for Professional Educators 10.1.4 indicates the following: "B. Three of the six semester hours must be a course related to the improvement of instruction through the use of	NA	The term instructional technology is also defined in WVBE Policy 5202 §4.38 in the following manner: "Commonly called educational instructional technologies. This coursework should address instructional technology operations and concepts, the plan and design of effective instruction supported by technology, the implementation of curriculum plans that include instructional technologies, and application of technology to assess and evaluate student learning." Apparently this is taken from the National Educational Technology Standards for Teachers (NETS-T) formulated by the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE). This is initially problematic because according to their own website (<http://cnets.iste.org/curstands/cstands-netst.html>) these standards "focus on preservice teacher education". This is going to become a requirement of currently practicing teachers (and administrators) not preservice teachers. Additionally, if we are going to use NETS-T standards created by ISTE, why only allow teachers to use 4 of the 6 standards. The following are the two omitted standards of NETS-T: V. PRODUCTIVITY AND PROFESSIONAL PRACTICE. Teachers use technology to enhance their productivity and professional practice. Teachers:

- . use technology resources to engage in ongoing professional development and lifelong learning.
- A. continually evaluate and reflect on professional practice to make informed decisions regarding the use of technology technology, instructional technology is a research-based, systemic approach to define, understand, design, utilize, implement, manage and evaluate appropriate educational technology applications, resources and tools aligned to content standards and objectives for 21st century instruction to improve student learning." In addition, the requirements for three semester hour course are loosely based on the National Educational Technology Standards for Teachers to allow greater flexibility for teachers when completing coursework for the renewal of the teaching certificate.

Focusing three of the six semester hours required to renew a Professional Teaching Certificate on instructional technology does not limit the superintendent's capacity to direct the coursework, as three of the six semester hours are not limited to coursework related to instructional technology.

in support of student learning.

- B. apply technology to increase productivity.
- C. use technology to communicate and collaborate with peers, parents, and the larger community in order to nurture student learning.

VI. SOCIAL, ETHICAL, LEGAL, AND HUMAN ISSUES.

Teachers understand the social,ethical,legal,and human issues surrounding the use of technology in PK-12 schools and apply those principles in practice. Teachers:

- . model and teach legal and ethical practice related to technology use.

- A. apply technology resources to enable and empower learners with diverse backgrounds, characteristics, and abilities.
- B. identify and use technology resources that affirm diversity
- C. promote safe and healthy use of technology resources.
- D. facilitate equitable access to technology resources for all students.

Further, who is going to determine that the technology course meets the standards set forth by policy? Is the term "technology" in the title sufficient enough to allow the course to be used in this capacity for renewal?

Another concern is that this change in policy takes away from the ability of principals to insist on a course of action for struggling teachers in their building.

The Office of Professional Preparation (OPP) commonly reviews transcripts to determine if specific courses meet the requirements identified in both WVBE Policies 5100 and 5202. In the future, the OPP will continue to do the same with regard to these courses.

		Under the current policy, a principal can dictate courses required for a struggling teacher to take for renewal. This policy change removes that option. While technology integration is certainly a valuable and imperative goal in education, where is the research that indicates that one course every three to five years is the best way to attain that goal? Where is the research that indicates that this is the best way to increase student achievement? Additionally, don't the best models of technology integration look transparent? Requiring a separate course does not get to transparency in technology integration. Surely any educational course teachers/administrators take in this day and age has technology integrated throughout, both implicitly and explicitly. Finally, this section allows for issuance of a permanent administrative certificate to be issued to a person who has obtained licensure through the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS). There is currently no NBPTS certificate in administration. If we will allow the administrative certificate to become permanent on the basis of a teaching certificate from NBPTS, we just need to make that clearer in policy.	N	All coursework should address the integration of technology into quality instruction; however, by requiring a separate course addressing instructional technologies, teachers will gain a better understand of the general concepts and specific appropriate application of available instructional technologies. House Bill 2585 modified W. Va. Code §18A-3-3 to allow "the holder of professional certificate, valid for five years, shall have that certificate made permanent upon meeting any of the following requirements:.....receives certification through the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards." While the NBPTS does not currently have a program for administrators, it is anticipated that it soon will offer such a program.

If not granted, Marketing Education programs will continue to diminish in the state of West Virginia.		Preparation is currently working with the Office of Career and Technical Instruction to develop the criteria, based upon national standards, for a program leading to this endorsement. It is anticipated that this recommended revision to Policy 5202 will be included in a subsequent revision.

Subject: a general recommendation for policies on comment

Hi, Nathan!

In the revisions to 2419 we changed the BD disability category to E/BD, i.e., emotional/behavior disorder.

You may want to do a search and replace in both your policies to see where it is relevant to make a change when the reference is to a student's area of disability.

I see in the Spec Ed Specializations chart, that the endorsement is Behavior Disorders (excluding Autism) but that 0371 under the Praxis Content Test is Teaching Student with Behavioral Disorders/Emotional Disturbances.

I don't know if you want to get into changing the name of the endorsement to E/BD. May be a little late for that this time. If you do want to consider it, however, please send me the section numbers of the policy and I'll help with wording.

As of Fall 2007, Marshall University will no longer offer Marketing Education as a choice for future students in the teacher education program. However, Business Education is still an option. In response to requests from Marshall University's College of Education and Human Services, and in conjunction with Abigail Reynolds and Betty Sias, WVDE, Marshall University is seeking to offer a combined - Business/Marketing Education - degree program for students seeking a dual certification. Please consider this as a viable option in order for Marketing Education and Business Education to grow in the state of West Virginia. If not granted, Marketing Education programs will continue to diminish in the state of West Virginia.

10.1.4 indicates the following: "B. Three of the six semester hours must be a course related to the improvement of instruction through the use of instructional technologies. This coursework should address instructional technology operations and concepts, the plan and design of effective instruction supported by technology, the implementation of curriculum plans that include instructional technologies, and application of technology to assess and evaluate student learning." Apparently this is taken from the National Educational Technology Standards for Teachers (NETS-T) formulated by the International Society for Technology in Education (ISTE). This is initially problematic because according to their own website (<http://cnets.iste.org/currstands/cstands-netst.html>) these standards "focus on preservice teacher education". This is going to become a requirement of currently practicing teachers (and administrators) not preservice teachers. Additionally, if we are going to use NETS-T standards created by ISTE, why only allow teachers to use 4 of the 6 standards. The following are the two omitted standards of NETS-T: V. PRODUCTIVITY AND PROFESSIONAL PRACTICE.

Teachers use technology to enhance their productivity and professional practice. Teachers:

. use technology resources to engage in ongoing professional development and lifelong learning.

A. continually evaluate and reflect on professional practice to make informed decisions regarding the use of technology in support of student learning.

B. apply technology to increase productivity.

C. use technology to communicate and collaborate with peers, parents, and the larger community in order to nurture student learning.

VI. SOCIAL, ETHICAL, LEGAL, AND HUMAN ISSUES.

Teachers understand the social, ethical, legal, and human issues surrounding the use of technology in PK-12 schools and apply those principles in practice. Teachers:

. model and teach legal and ethical practice related to technology use.

A. apply technology resources to enable and empower learners with diverse backgrounds, characteristics, and abilities.

B. identify and use technology resources that affirm diversity

C. promote safe and healthy use of technology resources.

D. facilitate equitable access to technology resources for all students.

Further, who is going to determine that the technology course meets the standards set forth by policy? Is the term "technology" in the title sufficient enough to allow the course to be used in this capacity for renewal?

Another concern is that this change in policy takes away from the ability of principals to insist on a course of action for struggling teachers in their building. Under the current policy, a principal can dictate courses required for a struggling teacher to take for renewal. This policy change removes that option.

While technology integration is certainly a valuable and imperative goal in education, where is the research that indicates that one course every three to five years is the best way to attain that goal? Where is the research that indicates that this is the best way to increase student achievement? Additionally, don't the best models of technology integration look transparent? Requiring a separate course does not get to transparency in technology integration. Surely any educational course teachers/administrators take in this day and age has technology integrated throughout, both implicitly and explicitly.

Finally, this section allows for issuance of a permanent administrative certificate to be issued to a person who has obtained licensure through the National Board for Professional Teaching Standards (NBPTS). There is currently no NBPTS certificate in administration. If we will allow the administrative certificate to become permanent on the basis of a teaching certificate from NBPTS, we just need to make that clearer in policy.
